Boulderstone Bilfinger Berger Services JV secures upstream contract with Australia Pacific LNG

Boulderstone Bilfinger Berger Services JV has been awarded a contract to supply engineering, procurement and construction services for the upstream segment of Australia Pacific LNG's coal seam gas (CSM) to liquefied natural gas (LNG) project.

The Boulderstone Bilfinger Berger Services JV will undertake early works for the gas field facility in Queensland, prior to a final investment decision at the end of 2010.

"Bilfinger Berger Services has considerable experience in complex industrial and process engineering design, construction and installation projects," said Bilfinger Berger Services Managing Director, Mark Elliott.

"This contract marks a new era for the company in our work for the oil and gas industry."

Boulderstone Queensland General Manager Stephen Green also welcomes the opportunity to further expand his team's oil and gas expertise.

"The magnitude and diversity of this project excites our team and we look forward to working with our JV partner to deliver this stage of the contract for Australia Pacific LNG," Mr Green said.

Around 100 design engineers will work on the project and will be based in Brisbane.

Australia Pacific LNG is a 50:50 joint between Origin Energy and ConocoPhillips that will bring together Origin's 10 and ConocoPhillips' 25 years of CSG experience, as well as ConocoPhillips' 40 years experience in operating and developing LNG facilities.
