Engineering company pledges $20,000 to support community groups in Newman and Port Hedland

Pilbara-based engineering firm, Bilfinger Berger Services, has made available $20,000 to support not for profit community groups making a positive contribution to the Newman and Port Hedland communities.

Interested groups are invited to apply to the Bilfinger Berger Services Community Support Program for a grant to support their activities. Applicants will be required to address a series of selection criteria and provide background information on the activities of its group.

“Bilfinger Berger Services aims to contribute positively to the communities that are host to its activities. We are very pleased to be able to offer financial support to organisations that are working to make a difference in the Newman and Port Hedland communities,” said Daryl Smith, WA Operations Manager, Bilfinger Berger Services.

Bilfinger Berger Services, a specialist engineering, construction and asset management contractor, employs around 250 permanent staff in the Pilbara. The company has operated in the region for more than 10 years, and currently provides electrical and mechanical services to companies such as BHP Billiton and Rio Tinto.

In addition to its operations in Newman and Port Hedland, Bilfinger Berger Services also has facilities in Esperance and Perth, and across Australia and New Zealand. The company employs around 3,500 people across Australia and New Zealand and in addition to the resources sector, also provides services to the transport, water, energy, utilities, industrial and process and social infrastructure sectors.

Submissions to the Bilfinger Berger Services Community Support Program must be lodged online or received in the mail by close of business Wednesday 7 October 2009. For information about how to apply, visit the company’s website (www.bbs.com.au) or contact Anita Leach via telephone: 08 9442 0200, or email: anita.leach@bbsaa.com.au.
